

THE NORTH END'S
GIOVANNI DeCUNTO
Portrait of Trump

Giovanni DeCunto attended Ernie Boch, Jr.'s annual Summer Bash at his Norwood mansion on August 20th. Trump was main event of the evening. Upon arriving at the event, Trump gave a national press conference before entering the party. After Trump gave the audience a moving speech, he moved to the location of Giovanni DeCunto's portrait of Trump. DeCunto passed the tube of paint (which is Giovanni's signature trademark-style of painting) to Trump, and Trump signed with the tube to future enhance the portrait for this historic event. The portrait is now part of Ernie Boch, Jr.'s private collection.

There was a windstorm of press from around the world photographing the painting. This painting quickly became a symbol of the evening.
